

Rhine LAM 1600SE

Roll-to-Roll Lamination System

The Rhine LAM 1600SE Roll-to-Roll Lamination system is designed to deliver smooth, bubble-free lamination and mounting performance for signage, graphics, and print finishing applications. Engineered for precision pressure control and stable media handling, it enhances print durability, surface protection, and visual appearance across a wide range of indoor and outdoor applications. Combining reliable performance, user-friendly operation, and efficient workflow management, Rhine Lamination is ideal for commercial printing, signage production, and graphic finishing environments.

Key Features

Smooth Lamination Performance

Engineered to provide even pressure distribution for professional-quality lamination with clean finishing and improved media appearance.

Bubble-Free & Wrinkle-Free Output

Ensures smooth application across graphics and printed media, minimizing air bubbles, wrinkles, and surface imperfections during production.

Adjustable Pressure & Speed Control

Flexible operating settings allow users to adjust roller pressure and lamination speed according to different material thicknesses and application requirements.

Heavy-Duty Roller System

High-quality rollers and stable frame construction support continuous production while maintaining reliable and consistent finishing quality.

Wide Media Compatibility

Suitable for laminating vinyl, printed graphics, mounting films, flex materials, posters, and various signage applications.

Durable Industrial Construction

Built with a robust steel structure for long-term reliability, stable operation, and reduced vibration during continuous use.
